Writes of the Doings and Not-Doings of the Saints.

Society and Other Items of General Interest To All of Our Readers—Marriages Predicted.

St. Matthews, Ky., Mar. 20.—Well, folks, this is the day for the bi-monthly report of the doings, or not doings, of this community, and I shall begin by acknowledging we are a "poky lot," when we stand cheek by jowl with society. There are a few attempts to show off at the capital(?) occasionally, which lays everybody else in the shade, but, as a rule, we pool along in the same old country way of "spending the day" as in days of Auld Lang Syne. When we have visitors the decoration of our houses and our person is a secondary matter; we joyfully give them the best we have and enjoy their company to the uttermost.

Mrs. Robert Herr and son, Robert, have returned to their home at St. Matthews, after a lengthy visit in Mississippi, and were joyously welcomed at old Beargrass church last Sunday.

Miss Elston Veech, one of our most interesting buds, has returned to her home, "Grey Holt," after many months absence in Europe, which will enliven this little burg wonderfully.

Miss Houston, from Morganfield, has been visiting her friends and relatives at this place for several weeks. Entertainments in gorgeous style for her sake have been at the homes of Mrs. Jule Arterburn and Mrs. Burton Arterburn. An accurate description of these gala days for up-to-date young folks is beyond the pen of your correspondent (being a back number) so leave to your imagination what is left out in reporting the good times of the present day.

"Look and Listen," as we are told at the railroad crossings, for several marriages in the near future near Springdale. That's as much as I am allowed to say. It's such a comfort to the parties to keep it a secret awhile longer.

Spring is really here, although accompanied by chilling winds, and our farmers are possessed of but one idea—potato planting, and they are pursuing it to the limit of physical endurance. It's wonderful the amount of work which has been accomplished in a week.

Lest the C. W. B. M. and the Endeavors be exalted above measure by their many compliments and boosting in the papers, I must tell them there is much of the alphabet left to go, even with their numbers subtracted and more good done in a quiet way, without any organization other than free will offerings from Christian spirits, which would surprise the "societies." True, we do not wish it blazed about, and he who looketh on the heart will acknowledge his "well done and faithful servants" in due time. Don't think we have our talents and money laid by in a napkin because we do not publish it.

AFTER THE TEMPEST.

The Genial Calm That Settled Over the Pretty Schoolman.

A pretty schoolman once taught school in a Long Island village. All the young fellows for miles around were mad about her, but the schoolman was proud, and none of the boys seemed to stand the ghost of a chance.

Young Jim Brown, the judge's son, was the best looking chap in the town, and Jim probably loved the schoolman more than any of her other swains, but he never had the chance to declare himself. He felt too small and mean before the beauty and learning of the schoolman. But one day, the schoolman was being away on a visit in New York state, Jim asked advice of the editor. The editor said: "Take the bull by the horns and in a moment of your forthcoming marriage in my society column. It will cost you only 50 cents."

So Jim inserted an announcement to the effect that the schoolman and he would be married the next month and would spend their honeymoon at Atlantic City.

After a short time after this announcement appeared the schoolman came back home. Jim heard on all sides how furious she was. For several days he kept away from her. Then one afternoon as she was coming home from school he ran plump into her in the lane.

She let him know at once what she thought of him and his outrageous conduct. She stormed and raved, and pretty eyes flashed fire. Jim stood first on one foot and then on the other, and finally he blurted out: "Well, if you don't like it I can have the announcement contradicted."

"Oh, bother it!" said the schoolman. "It's too late now."—Washington Star.

THEY LIKE PRISON LIFE.

A Class of Persons in Japan Who Try to Break Into Jail.

In Japan there are people who make sham confessions in order to obtain a period of the comparative warmth and comfort of a Japanese prison. The Japan Mail says that the police of the capital has words to describe and distinguish these persons. "Mushku," or the dice criminal, will steal some small article from a shop front in such a way as to be seen doing it. He then makes a bolt of it, pursued by the master of the shop, or some faithful kozo, but presently allows himself to be caught and handed to the police. He has to 'do time' for his pretended theft, but his sentence is secured for a period, and when that period has elapsed he will allow himself to be caught again.

"The unadorned," or "vel bow" criminal, is wittier than the one just mentioned. He does not actually commit a crime, such as will put him into the convict side of the prison, but allows himself to be found looking in suspicious places, underneath the broad veranda of a temple, or in the garden of a private house. He gets into prison all right, but he secures the more generous treatment of the house of detention, which is to the fore of the convict jail, and a dish of eis is to a bowl of plain rice.

The "Kuruma" is a criminal who makes a sham confession in order to sneak a free railway ride. The Asahi tells of a case connected with a murder, known as a "disguised corpse case," which took place last year. A man gave himself up to the police in Sendai as the perpetrator of the crime. He was brought to Tokyo and his story investigated. It was found to be a pure fabrication.

A STRAUS STORY.

A French contemporary tells a quaint story of the composer of "Salome." He was dining one night with a party of musical friends when the conversation turned on the compositions of the kaiser. Some of the guests had expressed their opinions pretty freely when Herr Strauss put his finger to his lips and said: "Sh-sh! You should never run down the compositions of crowned heads in company. There is no telling who writes them."

FISCAL COURT

Holds Meeting and Advises Sale of Automobile—Press Agent Is Lawful—20c Cent Levy Granted.

Times: That the specific resolution of the Fiscal Court looking toward the advertising of the county's resources is illegal, was the substance of an opinion, handed down to the court at noon Tuesday by County Attorney Scott Bullitt. Mr. Bullitt expressed the opinion that the board had no authority to appropriate the sum for advertising in view of the fact that it delegated one man, Denby B. Goode, at a salary of $1,800 a year, to supervise the expenditure. The board itself, he holds, must supervise such expenditures.

Mr. Bullitt also read an opinion unfavorable to the plan of County Surveyor Russell Gaines' employment. He stated that he did not think such a map was needed.

Another opinion handed down by Mr. Bullitt advised the sale of the Fiscal Court's automobile just as quickly as possible. In view of the ruling of the Court of Appeals denying its legal right to purchase such a machine he said there was nothing to be done but to sell it. Immediately after their opinion of the County Attorney had been delivered to the court in regard to the automobile Magistrate Dacher moved that the Automobile Committee be empowered to dispose of the machine. After some parleying this motion was withdrawn, and Magistrate Hollis, who has also opposed the automobile proposition, offered a resolution that the County Attorney be instructed to take all means proper to recover the $4,200, expended for the machine, and also all moneys paid out for its maintenance and for chauffeur hire. This resolution was promptly voted down by a vote of six to two, as follows:

Yeas—Hollis and Dorsey.

Nays—Wheeler, Dasher, Vogt, Gifford, Berry and Robb.

CONFEDERATE DIES NOT IN THE TRUST

Geo. L. Newkirk, Courier During Civil War, Ends Battle of Life—Masonic Ceremony by Local Lodge.

The funeral of George L. Newkirk, 75 years of age, a gallant Confederate soldier and a member of a prominent old family of Jefferson county, was conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the home of his nephew, H. S. Newkirk, 1715 Ruler avenue, Louisville. The Jeffersonian Masonic Lodge, of which Mr. Newkirk was a member, conducted services at the grave. Burial was in Cave Hill cemetery.

Mr. Newkirk died of heart trouble at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at his nephew's home, where he was taken several days ago from the Confederate Home at Pewee Valley, where for several years he had resided. He was a native of Jefferson county and was unmarried. He enlisted in the Confederate army in November, 1861, and served as a courier for Gen. John C. Breckinridge, distinguishing himself on several occasions in getting through the Federal lines, and traveling great distances to deliver messages. Most of his life he was a farmer near Jeffersontown. On December 26, 1908, he was admitted at the Confederate Home, he desiring to spend his last years with his old comrades. He is survived by a brother, Frank M. Newkirk, and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Wingard, of California.

POST MORTEM

Examination of Dudley Moore Reveals Fact That He Lost Life From Blow Upon Head—Occurs After Work.

Coroner Duncan had the body of Dudley Moore taken from the grave this morning and after holding a post mortem examination, reported that Moore lost his life from a blow upon the head, causing concussion of the brain. Moore died Sunday and it was reported that he lost his life from pneumonia.

He was buried in the colored cemetery at this place, but on account of complaints made by relatives of Moore, his body was taken up and examined with the above result.

Patrolmen Williams and Long left immediately for the home of Rufus Hays, stepfather of Moore, to place him under arrest for murder. Moore had been married one week. It is said that he had not been ill previous to his death.

Notice.

To whom it may concern: It is the request of the trustees of the Jefferson town cemetery for every lot holder to be at the cemetery on the 25th of March. It is the opinion of some that the cemetery belongs to the trustees, but that is a mistaken idea. It doesn't belong to them any more than it does to any other lot holder.

The best way to find this out is to be at the cemetery on the 25th of March. The best way to find this out is to be at the cemetery on the 25th of March. The best way to find this out is to be at the cemetery on the 25th of March.

Be Yourself, never imitate. Your own gift you can present every moment with the cumulative force of a whole life's cultivation, but of the adopted talent or other you have only an empty show. That which can do none but his Maker can teach him.

Where is the master who could have taught Shakespeare? Where is the master who could have instructed Franklin or Washington or Bacon or Newton? Every great man is unique. Do that which is assigned to you and you cannot hope too much or dare too much—Emerson.

Help For the Electrician.

If you are ever puzzled in working with electric wires as to which is positive and which is negative or where the current is alternating there is no simpler method than the use of a potato. Cut the vegetable in half and insert the ends of the wire into the fresh body. About the positive wire a green stain will at once appear, due to dissolved copper. If the current is alternating the ends of both wires will be surrounded by dark colored stains.—Chicago Tribune.

RELIC OF ANTIQUITY.

The Seal That Is So Often Used on Legal Documents.

A most curious thing connected with legal business is the little piece of red wax or blue paper or clasp of sealing wax which we often place at the end of a signature to a deed, will or other important document.

It is a very small thing in size, but one to which a great deal of importance is frequently given. It is a relic of antiquity, and no plausible excuse can be advanced for continuing its use. Some of the more progressive states have practically abolished its use by legislation, which deprives it of any technical legal significance. In others, however, it is still used with all seriousness and solemnity, and an almost magical value is given to it by dignified judges that is little less than ridiculous.

A man died years ago leaving part of his estate to another to enjoy while he lived, with the privilege of devising it at his death to others whom he might select by a writing under his "hand and seal." A writing was executed so devising the property, but it was contested by others claiming the property upon the technical ground that the signature was not under the signature and the devise was therefore void.

A wise Philadelphia judge closely scrutinized the signature, and after carefully listening to the arguments of lawyers decided that at the end of the signature there was an extra scroll or flourish made with the pen with which the signature was made and that this was sufficient in law to constitute a seal.—Case and Comment.

EDUCATION BOARD

Meets at Courthouse Last Saturday and Transacts Usual Amount of Business.

The Jefferson County Board of Education met at the courthouse last Saturday and after the transaction of the regular routine of business quite a number of the citizens of the county were heard upon many subjects concerning the schools in many parts of the county. Some were opposing the 20-cent levy already asked for by the Board and others were complaining of poor school buildings in their respective districts and wanting new schools and others desiring to get their school district boundary lines legally established.

Quite a large number of bills for coal, repairs, etc., were reported and ordered paid. The subject that created the most interest was probably the one brought up by the citizens of Middletown and Rocky Hill school districts over the boundary line between the two districts. It was stated that the present boundary as recorded is very unsatisfactory and is conflicting. A committee was named by the Board to investigate the matter and report at the next meeting.

A committee from the Rural School Committee of Jefferson county was heard and reported that it was the desire of the committee that the Board defer any action in regard to the building of new schools at Middletown and Jeffersonton until after the state-wide meeting March 29, at which time the bonding proposition will be taken up and proposed to the next General Assembly if approved by the delegates.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Madame X at Masonic.

In addition to being thrilling beyond any other play in the city, this of this generation, "Madame X" is likewise regarded by the metropolitan critics as one of the most entertaining dramas of recent years. In writing this brilliant play, the famous Parisian dramatist, has evinced the characteristic skill of the French playwrights. He has realized that it would be impossible for any audience to endure the strain upon the sympathies and emotions that this wonder-work calls for, unless there were adequate humorous relief. He also understands human nature well enough to comprehend that there is humor in even the most tragic moments of any one's life.

Thus "Madame X" possesses a great deal of the lighter and more amusing characteristics; features that make for laughter as well as those things made for tears. In the figures of the three rascally fellows who try so desperately to make capital out of the misfortunes of the woman, there is much to entertain and amuse; there is a very charming and life-like love romance involving the son of the luckless Madame X, while even the pathetic little porter, Victor, has moments in which he arouses shouts of laughter.

Henry W. Savage will offer this drama, staged exactly as in New York and played by a company of the highest merit at the Shubert Masonic Theatre, Louisville, March 23, 24, 25.

WANT LINCOLN WAY

Buechel Commercial Club Asks That Fern Creek Line Be Extended—Meeting at Mt. Washington April 4.

To make Bardstown road the beginning of the Lincoln farm boulevard, instead of having the roadway run out of Louisville by way of West Point, as has been contemplated, is the aim of citizens of Bardstown, Buechel and other towns situated along the historic Bardstown highway. Representatives of the Louisville Commercial Club will be invited to attend a meeting to be held at Mt. Washington April 4 to give an impetus to the movement and also to take steps looking to the extension of the Fern Creek interurban electric line. Advocates of the Bardstown route for "Lincoln Way" point to the fact that this route would go by the birthplace of Lincoln, as well as leading to the old Lincoln homestead.

A committee from the Buechel Commercial Club has been appointed to confer with the directors of the Louisville Railway Company with reference to extending the Fern Creek interurban line eight miles further. The committee will take the railway company to issue mortgage bonds to raise the money for the extension provided citizens along the line agree to make good any deficiency resulting from the sale of the bonds below par.

Entertained.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thorne entertained the following last Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. John Hays, Miss Georgie Wilson, Joe Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Hermann, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Biley and daughter, Marguerite, Philip Huber, George Hillen and George Hauser, all of Louisville.

LIVES WERE ALIKE

Nonagenarians, Spencer County Folk, Die Almost Simultaneously—Are Buried Side by Side.

Fishersville, March 17.—Coincidences in their lives which had firmly cemented their friendship for each other persisted even in the deaths yesterday of George William Snider, aged ninety-five years, and Mrs. Eliza Nichols, aged ninety-three years, occurring within fifteen minutes, one from the other. They were buried side by side in the cemetery near Snider's this morning. The old people resided only a few doors from each other on the Briar Ridge road.

In 1835, Mr. Snider and Mrs. Nichols, then both young people, joined the Baptist church while a revival was in progress in a log cabin which stood on the present site of the Bethlehem Baptist church.

Both married in the year 1839 and strangely enough both raised the same number of children.

The odd coincidences had drawn the old people closely together, and when death came to them the story of the similarity of their lives was the occasion for wide remark among their friends.—Herald.

DE LAVAL

AN HONEST CAPACITY CREAM SEPARATOR

All separators are rated at so many pounds of whole-milk per hour. DE LAVAL machines range in capacity from 150 to 135 pounds of whole-milk per hour, and the price depends largely upon capacity. We make the claim that under any and all conditions a DE LAVAL machine rated at 450 pounds capacity will skim as much whole-milk in an hour as any "would-be" competitive machine rated at 600 pounds per hour, and we have proved this statement so often in actual contests, that it has come to be an accepted fact by all well-informed dairymen. Every DE LAVAL separator is tested for capacity before it leaves the factory, and we guarantee every machine to separate its full rated capacity.

Before you buy a Cream Separator see and try a De Laval

Have one set up at your house and test it alongside of any other machine you like for capacity, cleanness of skimming and ease of operation. We don't ask you to buy a DE LAVAL upon "claims." We do ask you to be sure and give it a trial before you purchase any separator.

Catalog and full particulars of our "free trial plan" gladly mailed upon application.

His Promotion

By CARROLL H. PRICE

Copyright, 1930, by American Press Association.

Lucrative positions come from various sources, so many sources that it is difficult to mention or classify them. And yet how hard it is for a boy, unaided and often even with every advantage, to grow into one of them.

Frank Bushnell was obliged to go to work when he was but twelve years old. His education therefore was not of the best, and, having no one to help him on but himself, he progressed slowly, or, rather, he didn't progress at all. He sold papers on a railroad, then became a brakeman and when he was nearly thirty years old had got no farther up the ladder than baggage agent at a small way station at a salary of $30 a month.

Frank while hunting up a lost trunk went one day into the general offices of the company. There he saw the sleek, well-groomed officials with polished finger-nails and clean shaved faces. One who sat at a mahogany desk and tapped a bell occasionally for a boy to do his work may have been getting from $3,000 to $50,000 a year, while Frank for tiring himself out handling heavy trunks got less than $400. It made him desperate. He went back to his station and wrote a letter applying for a better position. The official who received it was about to throw it into the wastebasket when he remembered a station in the center of a desolate section of the road where the inhabitants who used the railroad habitually intimidated the ticket agent, securing tickets without paying any money for them. One agent after another had been discharged for not collecting for tickets sold. The official indorsed on Frank Bushnell's letter "Appoint him agent at Hawkeye."

When Frank learned that he was transferred to Hawkeye at a salary of $500 a year he was encouraged till he learned the facts. Then he was correspondingly depressed. But life looked so gloomy to him that he didn't care much whether he got killed trying to collect fares at Hawkeye or not. He was passing into middle age, had no home and, worst of all, wanted to make one with a girl he knew. But that was out of the question.

The first morning Frank appeared at his window a wild looking man applied for a ticket. Frank handed it out, but kept his hand on it, demanding the money for it. The man was putting his hand to his hip for his revolver when Frank laid his own hand on one beside the window invisible from the outside and fired at random through the opening. Then he went outside to discover the results and found the man, shot through the breast, giving his last kick. Going back to his telegraph clicker, he sent the following message to the man who appointed him:

"Killed man for refusing to pay fare. Send undertaker. Shall I keep on?"

When the gentleman received the dispatch he was puzzled just what to do in the matter. This taking the law in the hands of the company through one of its agents was not in keeping with the policy as laid down by its chief attorney. The recipient of the telegram took it into the president, who read it and was visibly impressed.

"Send an undertaker," he said, "and report the matter to Mr. Pugh."

Mr. Pugh was the road's chief attorney.

"But the reply to the station agent as to his future course? You see, he asks if he shall keep on killing those who refuse to pay."

"Appoint another man in his place and as soon as the legal difficulties are out of the way order him to report to me here."

There were no legal difficulties. Every one knew all about Hawkeye Station and felt assured that if the people living about it couldn't take care of themselves the law would fall also. In a few days Bushnell appeared before the president of the road.

"It seems to me," said the president, "that you have indicated the field for which you are fitted. I am director in a bank. We have trouble to find a man brave enough and at the same time honest enough to guard our funds and securities. I am told that you are scrupulously honest. I can secure for you the position of chief watchman at the bank. You will be held accountable for its safety, and as your duties will be very important your salary will be commensurate. You will receive $3,000 a year."

Frank was so astonished that he hesitated to reply. Finally, recalling himself, he said:

"If this promotion is for killing one man, why not let me stay there and kill a few more of 'em. I could get as big a salary as any one here in time."

"It isn't for killing a man that you are taken up for a more responsible position, but for furnishing evidence that you have plenty of nerve."

Frank Bushnell entered on his new duties. At first it seemed to him that, having been put there for the purpose of killing those who sought to rob the bank, he should shoot some one at least once a week in order to retain so fine a salary. But as time went on he learned that his value was negative, not to display his nerve, but to have it always in readiness. Not till he had been with the bank for ten years did he get another raise, and then it was for being in the line of promotion rather than on account of his readiness to shoot.

ENDS HIS LIFE

J. Ernest Harris Too Far Gone For Aid When He Was Discovered.

The funeral of J. E. Harris, a widely known farmer, who ended his life Sunday by swallowing strychnine at his home, a mile below Mt. Washington, was conducted at 10 o'clock last Tuesday morning from the Mt. Washington Methodist church.

No reason has been attributed as the cause of his committing suicide. He took the deadly drug at his home and was found in a precarious condition. Physicians were summoned and worked with the patient, but he was beyond medical aid, and expired at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. He is survived by his wife and three children, Mrs. A. C. Overall, Hyser Harris and E. H. Harris. He was forty-five years of age.
